THE WEEK IN PICTURES: KAMALADAMMERUNG EDITION

I used to think the four worst words in the English language were “The bar is closed.” But now we have Kamala Harris: “My values haven’t changed.” Yes, ma’am, that’s exactly what we’re afraid of. This is a more compact formula of what Reagan meant when he proposed the nine most terrifying words in the English language: “I’m from the government and I’m here to help.” At the present time it looks like we might be in for a lot of new “help” before long. Oh what joy!

A majority of Americans oppose Trump's national emergency declaration. He is playing politics with taxpayer resources to build an unnecessary wall. Congress now has a duty to overturn the President's veto.

Trump's "national emergency" is a manufactured crisis that plays politics with taxpayers' hard-earned dollars. We don't need a wall when so many other crises like climate change and gun violence plague our nation. I urge my colleagues to block this.

Just another example that the vast majority of illegal drugs trafficked into our country enter through legal ports of entry. Building a wall won't stop it.

Funds intended for victims of natural disasters should not be used for the President's vanity project, the wall. We will fight back against this ridiculous national emergency declaration.

I will vote for the resolution to block the President's national emergency declaration. We don't need a wall, we need to address actual emergencies facing our nation — everything from climate change, to gun violence, to lack of access to health care.

Here are the facts: the vast majority of illegal drugs that are trafficked into our country enter through legal ports of entry. A wall won't address drug trafficking issues. #SOTU

A budget is a reflection of our values. Trump proposed cuts to Medicaid, student loan assistance, Social Security Disability Insurance, medical research, nutrition assistance, and more — but included an additional $2 billion for his useless wall. It's downright heartless.

If the government shuts down, thousands of federal workers won't know when they'll be paid. Closing the government to fund Trump's unnecessary and wasteful border wall would be an absolute waste of taxpayer money. #TrumpShutdown

It's day twelve of the government shutdown. That's twelve days of uncertainty and anxiety for federal workers and government contractors who are being used as a bargaining chip in exchange for an unnecessary and wasteful border wall.

The Senate did its job to keep the government open — now it's on the House to do the same. Funding Trump's border wall would be a gross misuse of taxpayer money.

American taxpayers deserve comprehensive immigration reform that favors respect and dignity — not a useless and costly border wall. I'll say it again: Trump's border wall is a waste of money. We should be using that money for infrastructure, Medicare for All, or tuition-free college.

Instead of using border wall or breaks, imagine crumpling infra #SOTU

A government shutdown would cause real hardships heading into the new year for families across this country. Many federal workers wouldn't know when their next paycheck would be. Let's stop the shutdown threats over the wasteful border wall and keep the government open.

As the #TrumpShutdown continues into 2019, one thing is clear: a border wall would be an absolute waste of taxpayer money.

In just 12 hours, a #TrumpShutdown is possible. Let me be clear: I will vote against funding Trump's wasteful border wall.

This wall is not about securing the American homeland and securing the border. If you really wanted to secure the nation, you'd stop these people in the hope that they last an entire day.

Mexico isn't paying for Trump's stupid border wall — we are.

California is once again leading the way as one of sixteen states using the President over declaring a national emergency to build his wasteful border wall. It's time for him to stop playing politics with taxpayer resources.

Donald Trump launched his campaign with hateful attacks against immigrants. Then he: Enacted the Muslim ban. Demanded funding for a wasteful border wall. Separated children from their parents at the border.

We should do something about the actual emergencies that plague our nation — like climate change or health care access — not playing politics in order to build a wasteful border wall.

The Senate continues to reject request after request for Trump's border wall. This vanity project would be a misuse of taxpayer money and the President needs to give it up. #SOTU

As I said, Trump's border wall is a complete waste of taxpayer money and won't make us any safer.

This is who he is. He must be voted out.
